American Idol’s William Hung to be guest speaker at Chamber Gala, Oct. 18

The Temple City Chamber of Commerce has announced that William Hung, famous for his unique rendition of Ricky Martin’s “She Bangs” on American Idol, will be the special guest speaker at its 93rd Annual Awards Gala, Oct. 19.

Since his 15 minutes of fame, Hung has embarked on a new career as a motivational speaker sharing lessons learned from his experience on “American Idol,” and the whirlwind of attention, good and bad, that followed his unforgettable appearance.

Tickets are still available and are only $60 dollars (by Oct. 9) and will be $70 at the door. For more information or to purchase tickets, phone the Chamber office at 626-286-3101.

Chamber President Peter Choi welcomes William Hung, guest speaker at the Oct. 18 93rd Annual Chamber Awards Gala.

Temple City’s Fall Festival to feature barbecue, crafts, silent auction, Oct. 21

Temple City High School’s Vocal Arts Boosters, along with the City of Temple City Parks and Recreation present the Annual Fall Festival, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Oct. 21, in Temple City Park.

This annual tradition showcases performing arts talent from the Temple City Unified School District. The event also features crafters from around the area, a “Kids Country Arts and Crafts” and a barbecue featuring wonderful tri-tip sandwiches, hot dogs and more.

There will also be a silent auction and a raffle which awards the grand prize of a $500 Amazon gift card.

There will be showcase performances by The Pride Of Temple City Marching Band and Pac-Dony Corps, the TCHS Pep Squad Team, the Choreo Dance Troupe and the Oak Avenue Auxiliares.

Also performing will be the Longden, Emperor and Cloverly Choruses, The Stars Dance Team, the Oak Avenue Chonisters and the Temple City High School Chorale presenting selections from “Moana.”

As always, the host group for the event is the Brighter Side Singers, Temple City High School’s select show choir that has represented the school district and the city at events all over the world.

Two years ago they performed at Disneyland Paris and last year they were featured on stage at Carnegie Hall in New York.

They will be singing selections from “La La Land” and “Trolls.”

The Fall Festival raises funds for the vocal music programs at the elementary, junior high and high schools in Temple City Unified.

For ticket information or event questions, phone Matt Byers at Temple City High School, 626-548-5053 or e-mail mbyers@tcusd.net.

Cheer on the Rams and Chargers at The Boat

Football season is here and there’s nothing like watching the big games with groups of friends and fans.

Watch PAC 12 and NFL games on The Galley’s huge screens. A stein of your new favorite IPA, a big juicy burger with fries, and the evening or afternoon is set.

The Boat’s staff will customize a party menu and even dream up a special cocktail menu for you. Bring your friends and family often during the football season. The Galley is located at 7215 North Rosemead Blvd., San Gabriel, just south of Huntington Drive. Visit www.clearmansgalley.com for more information.

Chamber efforts save resources, safely discard, raise funds

The Temple City Chamber of Commerce’s Electronic Waste Recycling event, September 16-17, attracted a steady line of cars into Chamber member the Super A parking lot as many people took advantage of the free event to safely drop off computers, TVs, batteries and various other electronic appliances. The event was managed by Chamber partner Attan Recycling Corp.

City to offer free emergency response training

October sessions will prepare residents for disaster readiness and response

Temple City’s office of public safety is again offering free Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training, open to all residents ages 18 and older, starting this month.

According to Temple City Mayor Cynthia Sternquist, “in the wake of tremendous hurricane damage in Texas and Florida, as well as recent wildfires in California, it is time for the city and its residents to again take stock of how we stand in terms of emergency preparedness. CERT training will go a long way in assuring we are ready for such a disaster should one strike here.”

The CERT training program will consist of a series of three full-day sessions from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the Council Chambers, 5938 Kauffman Ave.

Two Saturday classes will take place on Oct. 21 and 28 and one Sunday class will be presented on Oct. 29.

The CERT program provides an opportunity for community members to learn about basic disaster preparedness.

Through classroom and hands-on instruction, participants will learn the basics of fire suppression and search-and-rescue operations.

In addition, the course will cover disaster psychology and medical aid, including triage techniques, patient assessment and the treatment of life-threatening injuries.

Training will culminate in a disaster simulation and drill, putting what participants learned into practice.

Those who complete all classes will receive Community Emergency Response Training certification.

In the event of an actual disaster, this certification allows them to work with city emergency response teams.

Registration in advance is required. For more information, phone public safety supervisor Bryan Ariizumi at 626-285-2171, ext. 4342.

City offers grants, no-interest loans for home improvements funded by H.U.D.

The City of Temple City is seeking residents to participate in its housing rehabilitation program, which offers grants and no-interest loans. Funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, loans and grants are available to low and moderate-income Temple City homeowners to make needed repairs to their property. The loans and grants can be used for a number of improvements involving plumbing, electrical and HVAC upgrades; energy efficient windows and doors; new roofs or repairs; interior and exterior painting; and ADA modifications like entrance ramps and bathroom retrofits. The maximum amount for a loan is $35,000 while the maximum for a grant is $10,000. Grants and loans are restricted to owner-occupied single-family homes in Temple City.

To apply and for more information, phone 626-305-6955.

Helping veterans pay for long-term care

Legal Report

Planning ahead is the American way.

There are currently more than 25 million veterans alive in the United States. There are more than 9 million surviving spouses of veterans currently living in the United States. Many of these survivors and surviving spouses are receiving long-term care or will need some type of long-term care in the near future, and there are funds available from the Veterans Administration ("VA") to help pay for that care.

Unfortunately, many of those who are eligible have no idea these benefits exist for them or that an attorney can help them become eligible.

Benefits Available

There are three types of benefits available that provide a monthly cash payment to veterans who have long-term health care needs. Below is an overview of the three benefits, and more detail will be provided on each benefit in the following paragraphs.

Service Pension: The VA provides a monthly cash payment to wartime veterans who meet active duty and discharge requirements, who are either 65 or older or disabled, and who have limited income and assets. Service pension is also available to a surviving spouse of a wartime veteran.

Pension with Housebound Allowance: A slightly higher monthly payment is available to wartime veterans (who meet the same service requirements as Service Pension) but who are confined to their home for medical reasons.

Pension with Aid and Attendance: The highest monthly benefit is available when a wartime veteran or surviving spouse requires the assistance of another person to perform activities of daily living, is blind or nearly so, or is a patient in a nursing home.

This benefit, often referred to as "Aid and Attendance" is the most widely known and talked about benefit as it offers the highest possible monthly payment.

Even if a person exceeds the VA income and assets requirements required to receive these benefits, a special type of trust may be drafted, which often allows persons to qualify for one of these benefits. For additional information, please speak with an attorney.

Several streets throughout town continue to be resurfaced, which entails the surface removal and replacement of 2 inches of asphalt. Portions of Encinita Avenue and Blackley Street were recently resurfaced. Work will continue next week on Broadway from Temple City Boulevard to Baldwin Avenue and La Rosa Drive from Baldwin Avenue to Arden Drive. City considers new rules for unattended collection bins, Oct. 10.

City inspectors have received numerous complaints about junk and trash collecting around charitable donation bins. The city’s community enhancement division is preparing a proposed set of rules for unattended collection bins. These new rules would require operators to obtain a permit and follow procedures regarding location, maintenance, frequency of pick-up and owner approval. The proposed rules will be presented before the Planning Commission, Oct. 10. For more information and to offer input, e-mail planning@templecity.us or phone 626-656-7316.

Meet Tea celebrates first anniversary

Max Bhatti, formerly a student at Oak Avenue Intermediate School and now a ninth grader at Temple City High School, has won a national science award for his science project from Broadcom Masters as among the Top 300 entrants in the national level of science competition for 7th and 8th grade students.

In early 2017, Max Bhatti represented Oak Avenue School of TCUSD at the Regional and State Science Fairs. Max entered the Aerodynamics/Hydrodynamics division with the project titled “An Evaluation of the Flight Characteristics of Ornithopter-type Aircraft Systems.” Ornithopters are aircraft that flap their wings like birds.

Max’s project won third place at the Los Angeles Regional Science Fair and first place at the California State Science Fair. This qualified him to enter the Broadcom Masters national competition.

Max thanks former Oak Avenue School Principal Lawton Gray and his science teachers Mrs. Lisa Copeland and Mr. Ken Powell for encouraging him to enter and compete at these competitions.

League of California Cities opposes SB 649

Wireless telecommunications facilities SB 649 (Hueso) SB (649), if passed, would require local governments to lease out the public’s property; cap how much cities can lease this space out for; eliminate the ability to negotiate public benefits; eliminate the public’s input and full discretionary review in all communities except areas in the coastal zones and historic districts, all for the installation of “small cell” wireless equipment. This bill is strongly opposed by the League of California Cities. – City Manager’s Report, Sept. 16-29.
City Senior Master Plan panel continues work

Temple City’s Senior Master Plan Advisory Committee continues to meet monthly to develop Temple City’s first ever senior master plan. To date, the committee has established a vision statement and goals for the plan, conducted community surveys and key stakeholder interviews, and is in the process of identifying existing service providers to gather additional input on issues relating to the senior population. The committee has also received presentations on topics affecting older adults, i.e. public safety, health and wellness, and ideas for future programming. A final presentation on transportation needs and trends is scheduled for the committee’s Oct. 5 meeting. Plans are underway to plan and schedule a day-long workshop in November that culminates and presents all received information into an action plan. That strategy will be incorporated into the final senior master plan, which will be considered for city council adoption in early 2018. — City Manager’s Report, Sept. 16-29

Playfactory Preschool presents 4th annual Playfactory Carnival

Approximately 150 people attended Chamber member Playfactory Preschool’s summer 4th Annual Playfactory Carnival. In addition to many fun activities, a prize drawing and silent auction raised funds to support both the Tuition Assistance Program (to assist parents with financial hardships) and the school’s Annual Fund which this year will help complete their “Outdoor Classroom” in the three outdoor areas. Playfactory is located at 9723 Garibaldi Ave., Temple City. For more information, phone Lana Shifflet-Ragos or Tammy Singdale at 626-285-9223. Support the American Legion with poppy donations, Saturday, Nov. 11

Look for members of the American Legion family to be distributing the poppies at local storefronts and post offices on Veteran’s Day, Saturday, Nov. 11.

The American Legion Family which includes the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary and the Sons of the American Legion, uses 100% of the monetary donations from the poppy program in supporting active duty military, veterans and their families with medical and financial assistance.

Since 1921, the American Legion Family has distributed little red crepe paper poppies on Memorial and Veterans Day as a symbol of their fallen comrades’ sacrifices on the battlefields during WWI.

The idea for the use of the flowers came from the wartime poem entitled “In Flanders Fields” by Canadian physician Lt. Colonel John McCrae. Originally the poppies were handmade by veterans as a part of their therapeutic rehabilitation but with the growing demand for the iconic red poppies outpacing capabilities, now reputable commercial vendors manufacture the poppies.
